THE CENTUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Workman's Wife.

THREE wide, white roads met at a little piece of short, dry lawn, where stood a finger-post, pointing in three opposite directions.

Two of the roads led to the small town and smaller village just visible across the meadows, and the third up a long, dusty white hill to the downs beyond.

A dreary, dismal prospect, with its stiff rows of poplars against the sky-line, and the stunted willows fringing the slow-flowing stream. But here and there a bush of white hawthorn shone out pure and beautiful, and patches of yellow marigold's made gay the yellow meadowland. Spring showed herself in the faint green of the bushes, the pale blue of the sky, and the rich song of the thrush. She laid her flower-laden hands on the poor bare pasture and made all beautiful, like the smile of a mother in a dismal home.

Up the steep hill a group of workmen toiled, their white tool-baskets hung on their backs, their brown figures all in harmony with the scene.

They moved with the slow slouching gait born of long toil, their heads bent, their eyes dull and listless with the weight of many years of hard work and drudgery. One of them, a younger man, paused at the finger-post, and bidding a brief "good night" to his comrades, chose a small path running close by the line and through the brown fields, ploughed and harrowed in readiness for the seed. A few solitary crows stalked up and down among the ridges, looking for the grain they had come too early to find.

One corner of the field was still yellow with the useless mustard, and a fire had been made of the rubbish and was dimly burning, sending a cloud of pale blue transparent smoke across the landscape. Everything stood out clean-cut in the clear spring atmosphere, and the heart of the man was as the heart of a little child, drinking in insensibly the beauty of life and of nature.

His rough garments were stained with the shales he had been working among all day. His thick corduroy trousers, strapped at the knee, creaked as he walked; his heavy, mud-caked boots, trod the young grass under foot. His throat was bare and brown, and in his rough, hairy hands, he held his tool-bag and tea-can, as well as some fragments of dry wood he had picked up on his way.

But God made man in His own image before the days of fusion and corduroy, and the reflection of Heaven lay in his blue eyes and on his broad brow. The splendor of life and the goodness of the Creator came to him as naturally as the song to the bird, and the thankfulness in his heart as he strode on was as acceptable as the power of a saint.

A little figure crossed the meadow on the opposite side of the line, and his gaze fixed upon it. A dainty figure, despite the old brown gown and lilac apron; a girl with the sun in her hair and eyes, and who carried the heart of the workman in her little hand. Over his face stole a tenderness too deep for words, and his heavy walk quickened as he watched his wife seat herself on a fence and shade her eyes with her hands.

Watching for him, he thought, "God bless her!" and he waved his tool-bag awkwardly enough.

But the shaded eyes were looking in another direction, watching a graceful figure advancing with swinging gait. Tibby glanced down coquettishly at her trim feet swinging from the stile and then up at the young squire, and her husband smiled at her pretty attitude.

Then the youth paused, and the two fell into conversation, passionate and pleading on his part, timid yet yielding on hers. She laid her hand on his arm and looked up at him with tearful, loving eyes, and the grip of the devil's hand took hold of the husband's heart.

With white set face and clenched fists, he moved slowly towards the two figures, still unconscious of his proximity. Then the girl laid her head back against her companion's breast, and their lips met as the lips of lovers.

Reluctantly they parted. The gentleman was soon out of sight, while the village wife sprang down from the fence, and as she did so she caught sight of her husband on the opposite side of the line.

Afraid of discovery, ashamed, blushing rosy red, with quick woman's deceit she ran lightly down the bank to meet him, as if she had been watching for him, and him alone. As she did so the misery of his face changed to one of horror, and the dull roar of the approaching express fell on his ear.

Quick as thought he flung himself across the line, and meeting his wife, he hurled her roughly back on to the bank in safety. What passed between the souls of husband and wife, as for one moment their eyes met? Was it confession on one side, forgiveness on the other? God knows. But the train passed by, crushing out the life of the workman as a moment before a woman had crushed out his joy.

And to the ever swelling crowd of saints and martyrs was added yet another soul that day.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold on me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble.

Angora goats more than pay for the expenses of keeping them by clearing my land. They clear off the willows, haws, buck brush, and squabberies and leave a good blue grass pasture where there was nuisance in the first place.—J. D. Lewis, Colo.

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to endorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills.

At Russellville, Ky., Ben Watkins, colored, was given two years and nine months in the penitentiary for the killing of Charley Ogden, another negro.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Scott's Emulsion

You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

SAM WILSON, POET.

The Painter Poet of the Kentucky Hazel Green Herald Receives Attention From W. J. Lampton.

From Editor and Publisher, New York.

W. J. LAMPTON was born in Eastern Kentucky. There are few experienced newspaper men who do not know of Mr. Lampton. They have been reading his poems for several years, and of late his fugitive verses in the New York Sun have been copied throughout the country. The following "bit" concerning journalism in Eastern Kentucky in Mr. Lampton's usual vein is contributed to The Editor and Publisher:

Up in the hill country of Eastern Kentucky is a quaint little town of 350 people, called Hazel Green. It is 20 miles from a railroad and connected therewith by a string of yellow dirt and hills that are anything but pleasant to drive over. At Aunt Lou Day's tavern are a dozen kinds of pie, ten kinds of preserves, fried chicken and stewed chicken with gravy to it like the nectar of the gods, roast beef and fried pork, and corn bread and white bread, and coffee and tea, and sweet milk and buttermilk, and honey and molasses, and hot biscuits and "batty cakes," and all kinds of other edibles popped down on the table without regard to courses, but just as toothsome and filling, make it a feast worthy of the epicure, the gourmet and the gourmand all in one.

In this remote little town is published THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD by Spencer Cooper, an editor who knows the long-felt want of his community and does his best to fill it, albeit the people do not always respond liberally to his earnest calls upon them, unless perhaps they do in the manner of ante-up spareribs, and sausage, and turnip greens, and cordwood, and shingles, and hoop poles, and ginseng, and new potatoes, and apples, and a jug of cider, and a box of honey, and a watermelon, and a pumpkin, while every now and then a subscriber lays an egg on his table, for all of which the editor and his "better seven-eighths"—he always calls her that—are fully thankful. THE HERALD is especially proud of the fact that when Max O'Rell was first in this country he mentioned it as one of two American newspapers which seemed to him to be the most characteristic of the country he had seen here, and Max didn't miss it much, for THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD is a monopoly of its kind.

Its locals are quaint, but its advertising is conventional, except when the Muse cuts loose through it; and THE HERALD has a Muse in the person of one Sam Wilson, who is referred to as the "painter poet." Mr. Wilson's field of endeavor in the art of painting is confined to painting barns, houses, fences, corn cribs, churches, and other structures including the painting and varnishing of furniture, and THE HERALD often contains commendatory allusions to jobs in that line which he has most artistically completed. THE HERALD also contains many of the painter poet's poems, and in a recent issue there shone a poem to the bonnets of a well-known local milliner, which as an advertisement and a symphony combined, is worth a dollar a line, though it is not believed that the Muse "pulled down" anything like that for it, and the editor no doubt put it in as a compliment to the fair milliner, or possibly took a bonnet for his "better seven-eighths" for it. In any event the poem is worthy of the careful and prayerful consideration of those other artists who call themselves ad-smiths, and write about pickles and pills and corsets and chills.

Herewith is Mr. Wilson's effort taken directly from the top of the column next to reading matter on three sides:

Written for THE HERALD.
Beauty's Hate at Mrs. S. B. Nash's.
If you want to see the beauties
That make the maidens smile,
Just go to Mrs. S. B. Nash,
And see the latest style.

Of hats and ribbons that will please,
Of every tint and shade,
The gayest, prettiest of them all,
She handles in the trade.

In her window you can plainly see,
These beauties, O, so cute,
I'm sure that if you'll step inside,
You'll buy one that will suit.

'Twould take up too much space to give
Each one its fashionable name,
But, O, these beautiful darling hats,
Will please you just the same.

And after your inspection,
You'll try one o'er your curls,
And joyous o'er the selection,
A lot of happy girls.

Hazel Green, Ky. SAM WILSON.

Merely to show what the poet painter can do in other departments of verse, I give below a couple of stanzas from another page, in which the poet painter is answering a HERALD correspondent who had asked him to write a poem on a "lady friend" of his. Note carefully, please, the loyalty to his own lady and the beautiful poetical sentiment so deftly combined, indicating, even to the uncultivated mind, the fine distinction between real poetry and advertising poetry which are contrasted in the two samples given:

To "Supple Jack."
Kind sir, it takes up all my time
To write for one alone,
Speak softly to your lady friend,
With music in your tone.

Just tell her for me, if you please,
There's one upon my mind,
Which none on earth can o'er compare,
With beauty so refined.

Some day Mr. Wilson may move his paint brushes and his pen nearer to the center of civilization, and if he ever does, some of our well known and industrious ad-smiths will be compelled to take to the tall timber.

W. J. LAMPTON.

Bronchitis

"I have kept Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my house for a great many years. It is the best medicine in the world for coughs and colds."

J. C. Williams, Attica, N. Y.

All serious lung troubles begin with a tickling in the throat. You can stop this at first in a single night with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Use it also for bronchitis, consumption, hard colds, and for coughs of all kinds.

Three doses: 25c, 50c, $1. All druggists.

Consult your doctor. If he says take it, then do as he says. If he tells you not to take it, then don't take it. He knows. Leave it with him. We are willing.

J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

For clearing our thickets and undergrowth of all kinds there is nothing better than Angora goats. The pasture will soon look as clean as a cleaned-up picnic ground as high as they can reach when standing on their hind legs. In this way they can reach 5 or 6 feet high, and they bend down everything they can reach with their fore legs. The brushier the range the better, and the more different kinds of brush and weeds on their range the better they will thrive.

—H. T. Fuchs, Tiger Mills, Tex.

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences; even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yanketown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases; piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits.

Angora goats will eat buck brush, black oak, hickory, and all other kinds of brush, jimson weed, ironweed, smartweed, and every other weed that grows, leaving the grass for other animals that will feed after the goats.—R. C. Johnson, Lawrence, Kans.

For 28c in stamps you can get a free trial of Wilson's Tobacco Cure. Has cured thousands.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.
THURSDAY, May 29, 1902.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

County Conventions at County Seats on July 19th, 1902. District Convention, at West Liberty, Ky., July 24th, 1902.

HOPKINS.—HON. F. A. HOPKINS, of Floyd county, is hereby announced as a candidate for the democratic nomination for congress from the Tenth district, subject to action of the democratic party.

DAVIS.—JUDGE AMOS DAVIS, of Morgan county, is herewith announced as a candidate for the democratic nomination for congress from the Tenth district, subject to action of the democratic party.

MANY an old soldier of the federal army who has heretofore failed of the pension privilege will hail with delight the announcement that Congressman Boreing of this state has introduced a service pension bill, and hope he will keep a boring at it until it becomes a law. His bill provides that every man who served 90 days or more shall draw $6.00 per month and one cent for each day of service. This would give veterans of that army in the neighborhood of $20.00 a month, and any soldier drawing less now than that bill would give him could avail of its provisions. That the pension laws are abused is patent to all who know of men now beneficiaries of the government that never participated in a battle or heard the whispering bullet. On the other hand there are many who suffered every hardship of three or four years' service, who do not get any pension, and perhaps for the reason only that they did not have a penchant for perjury. Their disabilities are certainly very great, and now that Evans is out let us hope they will get justice.

THE love of home was never more fully exemplified than in the following item, which is a dispatch emanating from Ola, this state: "John Templeton, aged 38, and his wife Susan, aged 26, of Pike county, walked from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, to their old home on Marrowbone creek. They went west last spring." And this brings to mind the question, Is there any other state of the union where the natives have such a longing for their native heath? We all know of people from other states who seem perfectly content to abide in the land of their adoption, even under adverse conditions. Not so Kentuckians. Everything has to be just to their liking or they are sure to turn for comfort to "My Old Kentucky Home." But we have never read of an instance where more devotion to the dark and bloody ground was manifested than in this. Just think of such a tramp for a woman! She is certainly a heroine, and we will bet a jug of buttermilk to a bump on a log she is a good wife as well.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS of the Federation of Labor Unions has just promulgated a circular letter advising that a new party be formed to which the laboring man shall swear allegiance. He wants to cut the present party ties and elect a president who will be in sympathy with labor as against capital. If Gompers has any gumption he must know that repeated efforts to do identically the same thing have invariably resulted in failure because of jealousy. A'l his grievances and grievances of the laboring man may be successfully treated by the Democratic party, which now is and always has been the poor man's party. Give it your allegiance and all will be well.

It is confidently hoped that Wolfe county will soon spring into great prominence as an oil producer. The indications point to that direction. The sensible farmers are giving leases on their land. At an early date wells are to be bored on the farms of W. L. Hurst and S. M. Tutt, and all are hopeful that gushers will be found. Then the farmers who now prefer to lag blindly in the old rut of behind times, will get their eyes opened to the flashlights of their own individual interests. It seems all should now climb into the bandwagon and do all in their might to bring to the surface the hidden wealth of our county.

JOHN GRANT, the deposed Texas U. S. Marshal, says he was fired because he declined to pledge the vote of Texas in the next republican national convention to Roosevelt. Naturally, he is now a Hanna man, and pictures Mr. Roosevelt as "a scourge upon the country, unfit to be recognized as a citizen and deserving that some form of restraint should be placed over him until the time comes for the people to defend themselves against him at the ballot box."

GENERAL headquarters of the democratic congressional campaign committee will be in Washington, but the headquarters of the executive committee, of which Hon. Benjamin T. Cable is chairman, will be in Chicago.

Reveals a Great Secret.

It is often asked how such startling cures, that puzzle the best physicians, are effected by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Here's the secret. It cuts out the phlegm and germ-infected mucus, and lets the life-giving oxygen enrich and vitalize the blood. It heals the inflamed, cough-worn throat and lungs. Hard colds and stubborn coughs soon yield to Dr. King's New Discovery, the most infallible remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free; for sale by J. Taylor Day, Hazel Green, and S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, drug stores. Guarantee satisfaction.

Expert Mechanic.

John Rose, the blacksmith of our town, is certainly a genius and a master mechanic as well. He has just made for THE HERALD office a push cart which is a daisy. Except the wheels all the work is his, and it will compare favorably with any that can be imported. But his reputation as a wagon builder is so well established that anything we could say would be superfluous and the cart is only a wagon of the miniature kind. Experience has demonstrated that the wagons he makes by actual test last longer and give greater satisfaction than any of the brought on kind, and the only pity is that he has not the capital to start a wagon manufactory. Could he do this, it would give employment to 20 to 30 mechanics and all of this section of the state would be a market for his product. It is a good opening for some man with capital.

The Best Firm in the Field.

W. F. Baker, representing Guggenheimer & Co. Lynchburg, Va., has a card in this paper to which the attention of merchants is respectfully directed. This is the firm that was formerly represented by Uncle Ike Hartfield, and from the amount of goods he sold—fully double that of any other house in the same line—it is presumed that it is the leading house of its kind in the south. They are not only jobbers but importers as well, and our merchants may rely on everything they buy of them as being just as represented. Wait for Mr. Baker and give him your order for anything you need in his line, and you will sure get a standard stock along with solid chunks of satisfaction. We bespeak for Mr. Baker as good a trade as Uncle Ike was wont to enjoy.

Holds Up a Congressman.

"At the end of the campaign," writes Champ Clark, Missouri's brilliant congressman, "from overwork, nervous tension, loss of sleep and constant speaking I had about utterly collapsed. Overworked, run-down men and weak, sickly women gain splendid health and vitality from Electric Bitters. Try them. Only 50 cts. Guaranteed and for sale by J. T. Day, Hazel Green, or S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease. It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition. It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs, disturbs the stomach. It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine has wrought the most wonderful cures of all diseases depending on scrofula or the scrofulous habit. Hood's Pills are the best cathartics.

Misses Mary Bruce Jones of Mt. Sterling and Del Cravens of McCausey are the guests of Miss Daisy Day until after the commencement.

H. D. Adams was at the bedside of Miss Eliza Oakley of Wellington, who is very low with consumption and can't live but a few days.

Mrs. Lou Mize fell and strained one of her ankles on Thursday last and has been compelled to remain at home on account of the accident.

Your cow pasture is due and payable the last day of each month. This rule will not be deviated from in any case. So call and settle promptly. J. T. DAY.

Married at the residence of P. Felix Bartley on Blackwater, on Sunday, May 19th, William Wilson and Miss Sarah Bryant, Rev. Wm. Yocum uniting them.

Rev. H. D. Adams has just closed a meeting at Wellington, Menefee county, with 12 additions to the church and nine by confession and baptism and two reclaimed, and the church much strengthened.

D. B. May canvassed Cannel City and other places in Morgan and Magoffin last week, and reports splendid sales for the Industrial Oil Co. He felt so good that he subscribed for THE HERALD.

Eliza, the little seven-year-old daughter of Dr. Center and wife, a report of whose illness was made in these columns last week, died on Saturday evening of septic fever. She had had whooping cough and something like bronchitis.

For Constipation Take Lyon's Laxative Syrup: If you don't like it better than any Laxative you ever used, your druggist will refund the money. Price 25c. Sold by J. C. Stamper, Grassy Creek.

Frank Horton and wife of Camargo, a daughter of Mrs. Jordan Wills, came up on Saturday evening to attend the bedside of that lady. Mr. Horton returned home Monday and his wife remained to watch by the bedside of her mother.

Our farmer friends should scrutinize closely the first and last pages of THE HERALD, where will be found several items relative to the Angora goat, which we have tried so hard to have them introduce. Now the only interest we have in this matter is the improvement of the country. The articles to which we refer give the experience of men who have raised them for their mohair; of others who have introduced them solely to clear land, and of others yet who have handled them as producers of meat. Read all the items carefully and remember that we got not a cent by their introduction. But we do want this to be the garden spot in fact, and if our farmers will work to our slogan, "Clear your brush land with Angoras and renew your wornout fields with cowpeas," our wish will be verified.

Loss of Vitality Is loss of the principle of life, and is early indicated by falling appetite and diminishing strength and endurance. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitality-builder on all the organs and builds up the whole system.

Hon. J. W. Congleton, judge of the Wolfe county court, and C. C. Fulk, county attorney, in and for Wolfe County, Kentucky: You are hereby notified that on or before the 20th day of June, 1902, I will file an application with the Kentucky board of prison commissioners, asking for a parole for my son Ingram Buchanan, who was indicted by the grand jury of Wolfe county at the September term of the Wolfe circuit court for manslaughter, and was tried under said indictment at the January term, 1902, of said court and found guilty, and his punishment fixed at five years in the penitentiary of which application you can take due notice this May 24, 1902. JAMES BUCHANAN.

What Thin Folks Need Is a greater power of digesting and assimilating food. For them Dr. King's New Life Pills works wonders. They tone and regulate the digestive organs, gently expel all poisons from the system, enrich the blood, improve appetite, make healthy flesh. Only 25 cents at J. T. Day, Hazel Green, or S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, druggists.

While working the road on the Wheelrim fork of Johnson Friday last Dick Oney and Charley Elam became involved in a difficulty, when the former hit the latter on the head with a goose neck hoe, inflicting injuries, from which the physicians, we understand, say he will die. The difficulty came over the road working, it appearing that Oney aimed to have a private road made at public expense.

When you have head ache or neuralgia, try Triphene. Sold by S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, and H. F. Pieratt, Hazel Green. tf

Miss Molly Oney spent Saturday afternoon with the family of O. W. Cecil quite pleasantly, but was sorry to find Miss Ada still on the sick list.

Our correspondents are derelict in duty and we want to say that henceforth they will not receive papers except for the week they have news letters. We are dependent upon them for the news and when they fail to send in their favors they put us to great inconvenience.

Sterling, accompanied by his best girl Miss Mary Bell Taulbee of Frozen; Boyd Wells, Della Arnett, Asa Rose and Eliza Taulbee. All were present at night meeting except the last mentioned, and Asa says, "That there would have been if Miss Taulbee had not gone home."

The party referred to by the Daysboro scribe, wishes to say in reply, "That he admits walking some farther, but was actuated by a far different motive; that of walking some fourteen miles, paying fifty cents train fare and nights lodging at Helephawa for the great pleasure of riding two miles on a freight train." But ye scribe really does sympathize with Miss Lula, she being opposed to the whole transaction.

May 27. BROOKS.

There will be a circus at Cannel City, June 4th; excursion will run from Jackson to Cannel City.

We are all invited to a carpet tacking Friday at Mrs. Lula Wilson's. We are expecting a good dinner and also a social at night.

Polly Nickell, wife of Nelson Nickell, died at her home on Red River, May 17th, leaving a family and infant two days old. We are in great sympathy with the family, as they are left to the mercy of their friends.

Ye scribe, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Amyx, attended the examination at West Liberty from Thursday till Sunday. We were glad to see so many students from Hazel Green academy on examination. It proves they are trying to make a start in this world, and depend upon themselves.

CAMPTON COURIER.

BEN SEWELL, EDITOR.

VOLUME I.—NUMBER 2.

EDITORIAL EFFUSIONS.

OF LATE there has been quite a frequency in the miscarriage of mail for Campton and Hazel Green. Louisville evening papers printed on one day should arrive at Campton the next day at one o'clock in the mail from Torrent and on to Hazel Green the same day in the evening. The Lexington morning papers should arrive at Campton at one o'clock on same day of publication, and on to Hazel Green in the evening. But of late such papers have been arriving a day, two days, or any old time, too late. The cause of this miscarriage seems to be the fault of some railway mail clerk. Sending such mail by way of Mt. Sterling as the fault is not in any postmaster. On Tuesday of last week the one o'clock mail from Torrent did not have a single paper for Campton or Hazel Green. By all means mail for Campton and Hazel Green should be sent on L. & E. train and left off at Torrent by the mail clerks. Then we will get our mail.

ONE of Henry Watterson's most recent remarkable and farcical statements is that "There is nothing sacred about consistency or about political platforms." The colonel is now exactly on line and in sympathy with the "regular" democratic party, and we presume that the statement about consistency and platforms simply means, if anything, that he would be willing to run as a candidate for president on any-old-kind-of-a-rickety-meaningless platform. His idea is that the American people are suckers.

How long, O, how long, will it be before the Carnac, Money and Tillman Company denounce the "heroic Philipinos" for treating American soldiers with such barbarous, inhuman cruelty? Surely it can not be a fact that this "over-patriotic smart set" of the senate has not found out that American soldiers were tied to a stake on a Philippine ant hill and there left until devoured. Tote fair, boys.

SENATOR TILLMAN, of South Carolina, with his pitchfork, and Col. Jack Chinn of Kentucky, with his dirk knife, would smash the trusts "comin and a-go-in" in 1904 as the democratic candidates for president and vice-president, respectively. For the salvation of the trust-ridden people it is hoped by legions of the great, common people that these two popular democrats will land the nomination.

UNLESS there is a political campaign on hand such a thing as "Negro domination" is never thought of. Negro domination does not and never will exist in this country except in the brainless craniums of political buckaneers—politicians who denounce carpetbaggers and other supposed evils for the sole purpose of being elected to office themselves.

TO MAKE a mistake is no evidence of ignorance unless the same mistake is repeated.

The new road from town to Granville Evans, is completed. Since the last issue of the Campton Courier 47 oil leases have been lodged in the county clerk's office for record.

Cutworms are doing great damage to corn crops in this part, and the farmers are having to replant extensively.

A. F. Byrd and wife went to Winchester last Saturday to select a site upon which to build a residence.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

The Angora on Brush Land.

Goats are browsers by nature, and there is no vegetation they will eat in preference to leaves and twigs of bushes. While this fact would at once establish them as an intolerable nuisance in an orchard or any other place where desirable shrubbery is growing, it also shows that they may be of great value in many localities where it is desirable that underbrush be destroyed. They are omnivorous eaters and seem particularly to avoid that character of vegetation which other kinds of live stock prefer. Every leaf and every twig within their reach is greedily eaten, even to most of the bushes and weeds that are considered poisonous to other ruminants, while a remarkably few weeds are passed by. They will desert the finest clover and blue grass for such an outlay.

The inherent tendency to climb leads them to hillsides and rocky cliffs, and they prefer such situations to any of a level character. Here nature meets their necessities by dwarfing the bushes so they may be browsed easily; the soil is quickly drained in the event of rain—for they do not like wet land; and the stones serve to keep the feet trimmed properly by the wearing process. This is the situation that the goats would choose; but the farmer might choose to turn them into a dense mass of brush and weeds anywhere and they will at once begin to convert it into the most beautiful pasture.

In those localities where valuable land is completely subdued by brush the goats are considered of more value for the purpose of clearing it than for their mohair or meat. They thus become one of the farmer's important tools. Their value in this respect must be measured by the value of the land which they will render cultivable. It is said that in Oregon, where Chinamen had been paid as high as $20 an acre for clearing off brush, goats had done the work even better. Sprouts will spring up behind the men's work, but goats will keep them down until they cease to appear. True, the goats require more time than men, but their work is better.

The Uses of Angora Goats.

A large class of people in some way have become possessed of the opinion that the goat is practically a useless animal. They do not reach conclusions upon investigations, however, and do not discriminate between the different breeds. To them a goat is a "goat," and there the argument ends. Investigations prove that the Angora goats are not only classed among the most useful of the domestic animals, and have been so classed for thousands of years, but their usefulness is manifested in a variety of ways. The fleece, called "mohair," furnishes some of the finest of fabrics among ladies' goods and is used in various other manufactures; their habit of browsing enables the farmer in a wooded locality to use them to help in subjugating the forest; their flesh is exceedingly delicate and nutritious; the milk, though not so abundant as with the milch breed of goats, is richer than cow's milk; their tanned skins, though inferior in quality to the skins of the common goat, are used for leather; their pelts make the neatest of rugs and robes; they are excellent pets for children, a few of them in a flock of sheep are a protection from wolves and dogs; their manure is noticeably helpful to the grass which follows them after they have cleared away the underbrush.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is; it's the hardest to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season; take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once; children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."

Mr. Cooper, Hazel Green, Ky.: I purchased some of the Vita-Ore of you in the latter part of March, and after taking about a half-pint of the Vita-Ore Elizer my nerves were as steady as when I was 16 years of age, and I am now past 75. For more than a year I had been trying all the patent medicines and nostrums I could hear of to build myself up, but nothing did me any good until I used Vita-Ore, which my wife brought me from your house. After using it a week I went out and did three days' hard work as I have done in 25 years, and I was not more fatigued than I was 25 years ago over the same work. It is the grandest medicine in the world, and I want everybody in the mountains to know what it did for me so they may try it. Hoping every one who has that tired feeling incident to old age will buy Vita-Ore of you and give it a fair trial, I remain, thankfully yours for putting me on to this remedy.

JAMES LACY.

I can vouch for every word Mr. Lacy says in the above. I am his wife and bought the medicine of Mr. Cooper for him, though I did not have much faith in it, because we had tried so many things that did no good. I have also used Vita-Ore, and am stronger and in better health than for years, which I attribute to its use.
